“Compton College professors are relatable and many of them are from the same neighborhoods as the students,” said Derrick White, an alumnus who is now working on his bachelor’s degree in criminal justice at California State University, San Diego. “They care about seeing students from the community succeed, not only at Compton College, but also throughout their lives.”

Compton College offers both academic and career preparation. Students may earn an associate degree or certificate, transfer to a four-year university or train for a career. Career training is available in 12 exciting and good-paying industries such as cosmetology, welding, machine tool technology, and heating, ventilation and air conditioning. Learn a new trade, increase wages, and qualify for promotions with career education that takes as little as 18 months to complete! Whatever the end goal may be, Compton College offers daytime, evening, Saturday and online classes so that students can build a schedule that works for them.

“It is not hard to get classes at Compton College and there are staff members available at the Welcome Center to assist new students with the registration process,” said Daniela Munoz, a Compton College student ambassador and environmental science major.
