Lynwood resident Brenda Juarez is all set for the spring semester at El Camino College Compton Center and is looking forward to her history, English and humanities classes. “It is important to register as soon as you can to get the classes you need,” says Juarez, a 2016 graduate of Lynnwood High School. “I successfully enrolled in the classes I had planned to take, and this will keep me on track with my educational plan so I can transfer to UCLA by spring 2018.”

Online registration for the spring semester at ECC Compton Center is currently underway for all students, where plenty of classes and a variety of student support programs are available to help students meet their academic and career goals. Classes have been added in high-demand subjects such as English, math, science, history, communications, child development, Spanish, political science, and sociology, to name a few.
