

Compton Community College District
Compton College
Response to California Community Colleges
Chancellor's "Call to Action"
October 12, 2020

Introduction

As an institution, Compton College exists within a community hit hard by recent events centered on police brutality, COVID-19, and growing economic and political instability. Compton College and Compton Community College District (Compton CCD) is committed, now more than ever, to addressing these systemic issues around race and racism, through communitywide dialogue, proper planning, and direct action.

In June 2020, California Community Colleges Chancellor Eloy Ortiz Oakley issued the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office "Call to Action" to actively strategize and actively take action against structural racism and poverty, and social injustice. Specifically, the Chancellor's Office "Call to Action" asks for systemwide mobilization around six key areas. Here is our interpretation of those areas:

1. Review of campus and communitywide law enforcement and expand first responder training and curriculum.
2. Initiate honest and open dialogue among faculty, staff, and administration that addresses issues surrounding campus climate.
3. Assess classroom climate and create an action plan with a focus on building a campuswide anti-racism curriculum and a more inclusive classroom space.
4. Review and update our equity plans with immediate speed.
5. Shorten the timeline for the full implementation of our Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Integration Plan.
6. Join and engage in the Vision Resource Center, "Community Colleges for Change."

While these items are clearly stated in the Chancellor's Office "Call to Action," Compton College is uniquely situated to address and expand on these items. The items require considerable reflection and engagement. As an institution, we have operated in the eye of the storm around equity, inclusion, and diversity for many years; however, the current situation requires all stakeholders to act with due diligence and expediency.

Our Story, Our Commitment

Compton CCD was established in 1927 as a component of the Compton Union High School District. In 1950, voters approved a bond issue separating the college from the high school district. Construction of the new college campus was completed on the present site. Classes began on the new campus in fall 1956. The Compton CCD encompasses about 29 square miles, making educational services available to nearly 300,000 residents of Compton, Lynwood, Paramount, and Willowbrook, and portions of Athens, Bellflower, Carson, Downey, Dominguez, Lakewood, Long Beach, and South Gate. On June 7, 2017, the Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges granted initial accreditation status to Compton College. Today, about 290 full-time and adjunct faculty teach more than 41 degree programs and 38 certificate programs.

Over the years, Compton College has struggled with recruiting and retaining males of color, particularly African American males. As cited in the 2018-2019 Annual Fact Book, 21% of Compton College students are African-American, and only 32% of the 21% of African American students are African American male students. African American student success rates also fall behind those of our general population. In the 2018-2019 year, 63% of African American students had successful course completion, compared to 69% for the general population. 4% of the African American students successfully completed Transfer-level math in the first year, compared to 6% for the general population. 10% of African American students successfully completed Transfer-level English in the first year, compared to 15% of the general population. 52% of the African American students persisted from fall to spring, compared to 57% of the general population. Finally, 27% of African American students earned zero units in the first term, compared to 22% of the general population. With the declining number of African Americans in our community (14% of the district population) and these concerning success rates, Compton College must especially focus on this population to ensure that they obtain their degrees or certificates from our institution.

Our commitment to student success is evident in the Compton College 2024, Human Resources Staffing Plan, Technology Plan, Enrollment Management Plan, and the Compton CCD Resolution #06-16-2020A Affirming Our Commitment to Student Success for Black and African American Students. In the spring of 2017, Compton College received results from the Community College Success Measure \(CCSM\) Survey and the Improving Student Success Outcomes for Men of Color at Compton College - Student Perspectives focus groups that were conducted by the San Diego State University Community College Equity Assessment Laboratory (CCEAL) in spring and fall 2016. As a result of the research from CCEAL, Compton College established the Men of Color Taskforce, who provided several recommendations to the President/CEO in December 2019. Many of those recommendations were funded in the 2020-2021 year through Student Equity and Achievement Restricted Funding, including developing and implementing a Men of Color Brotherhood and Mentorship Programs.

To combat low student completion rates and with a focus on teaching and learning, Compton College joined the Achieving the Dream (ATD) Network in the spring of 2020. Participation in ATD provides expertise and networking opportunities for the college to realize change to improve student success. Throughout the partnership and engagement with ATD, the college expects to see improvement in teaching and learning, increased engagement and efficacy of faculty and staff with data and technology, and higher levels of implementation of the Guided Pathways and Completion by Design. Our first virtual kickoff took place July 14-July 16, 2020. The topics of discussion included: The Community College Reform Movement – What it Means to Be a Part of ATD's Network; Using Data to Identify Your Student Success Priorities – Strengthening Teaching and Learning; and Preparing Faculty to Ensure Students are Learning.

Compton College must be bold and innovative in addressing the issues our Black Male students face, and how we implement programs and services that support all underrepresented students through our Guided Pathway Divisions and our Tartar Success Teams. Utilizing the "Call to Action," recommendations from our constituents, support from the Compton CCD Board of Trustees, and with support from the ATD, below is Compton College's Response to the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office "Call to Action."

Action 1: Law Enforcement and First Responder

The Chancellor called for a systemwide review of law enforcement officers and first responder training and curriculum on community college campuses. Compton College shall and will support innovative public safety efforts to serve as a model for community policing. This reimagining will require engagement from all stakeholders supporting collaborative community oversight of policing on campus and the surrounding areas. As an institution of learning, the larger question of how to build this trust and understanding can be addressed at the curricular level. Training and professional development opportunities must be ongoing and should include topics such as unconscious/implicit bias, de-escalation training, and community-oriented/de-militarized approaches.

We are also reviewing our current administration of justice program to determine how we can infuse equity into community policing discussion and perhaps encourage students to look at community safety and civil rights in a new progressive and empowering light. Since homelessness, unemployment risk, and food insecurity disproportionately affect students of color, this is an opportunity for Compton College to identify new ways to approach public safety, apart from the topic of policing.

Inspired by the work of Black Lives Matter, in November 2020, the President/CEO, through the Collaborative Governance, will establish the Compton College Task Force for an Equitable Approach to Community Safety and Health, which will include our current peace officers, faculty, classified, administrators, and the broader Compton community, whose tax dollars support our institution. The task force will review all Compton College Police Department policies, procedures, and staffing plans, with the primary goal of removing, amending any policies, practices, recommendations, or other instruction or direction that correlate with the inequitable application of justice or stand contrary to Compton College's imperative to create an equity-minded and safe environment for all. The task force is expected to provide recommendations to the President/CEO on reimagining public safety at Compton College by May 1, 2021.

Action 2: Dialogue to Address Campus Climate

Discussions about campus climate should also reach beyond what is happening on campus. Recent events have made this apparent. Compton College comprises a diverse community of stakeholders who live in our service areas, the broader Los Angeles community, and beyond. They bring their optimism, knowledge, and concerns to the campus each day. The transient nature of commuter colleges makes it more challenging to foster dialogue and a sense of community. Yet, these discussions are needed to guide students, staff, faculty, and administrators who have expectations that they will learn and work in a community that fosters equity, inclusion, understanding, and collaboration.

As an immediate step in this call to action, Compton College has partnered with the USC Race and Equity Center and joined the California Community College Equity Leadership Alliance. Membership in the Alliance will enable our institution to offer faculty, staff, and administrators opportunities to participate in monthly four-hour e-convening professional learning workshops focusing specifically on race and equity in the classroom and hiring practices. Participants of the e-convenings are expected to report out on the key takeaways and lessons learned to facilitate change on campus to better serve our students and improve communications among all constituents. Thus, participants will virtually discuss in a facilitated and recorded dialogue about what they have learned and how it can be applied to the campus and the surrounding community. Compton College will create a digital equity library hosted on the Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion website, which will serve as a repository for all the recordings that can be accessed by any member of the Compton College community and the public for further dialogue and action.

Compton College will also host trainings for campus administrators in the art of holding open and honest conversations within their departments about how we come together as an educational community to build inclusive and safe learning and working environments. For students, the college will continue the "Race Matters" student development workshop series every month. Previous topics have included "Race and Mental Health: Coping and Wellness Strategies," and "Healing Space: Uplifting the Community After Tragic Loss." Compton College will encourage and provide financial support for attendance at the African American Male Education Network & Development's \(A2MEND\) dialogues and conferences for employees and students.

The most recent School Climate Survey was administered in spring 2020. Results are currently being analyzed and will be published in November 2020. The previous School Climate Survey was administered in spring 2018 to Compton College students and employees. It assessed campus life, diversity and inclusiveness, classroom experiences, and physical environment views. The survey was sent to over 800 students (63% response rate) and 441 employees (15% response rate from employees). Although employees' low response rate made it impossible to disaggregate findings by employee type (e.g., faculty, Classified staff, managers/supervisors), the School Climate findings nonetheless provided excellent insight and recommendations to improve campus climate for both students and employees. The action plan to address the challenges identified in the results was developed to monitor our implementation of the recommendations. We must increase employees' participation in future climate surveys, and disaggregate findings by ethnicity among students, faculty, Classified staff, and managers/supervisors.

With these prior experiences in mind, in the spring of 2021, in collaboration with the USC Race and Equity Center, Compton College will administer the National Assessment of Collegiate Campus Climate (NACCC) survey on campus climate. The NACCC is a rigorous, expert-validated quantitative survey that measures belonging and inclusion, the frequency and depth of cross-cultural interactions, students' appraisals of institutional commitment to diversity and inclusion, and other related topics. While the first year will measure student responses, the USC Race and Equity Center is also developing a pair of workplace climate surveys: one for staff at all levels, and another for faculty (including adjunct instructors). These two surveys will focus on topics such as employees' perceptions of equitable opportunities for promotion and advancement; a sense of belonging and how different groups of employees differently experience the workplace environment; employees' encounters with sexism, racism, homophobia, transphobia, and other "isms" at work; employee satisfaction with the college's responses to reports of abuse, unfair treatment, and climate problems; and appraisals of the college's commitment to equity. The staff and faculty surveys will be administered in 2022 and 2023, respectively. We will be able to disaggregate survey data by race, gender, sexual orientation, (dis)ability, and other demographic variables. Data from the two employee surveys will also be disaggregated by role type and level.

Compton College Office of Institutional Effectiveness will develop an action plan to identify exact steps toward meeting the reports' recommendations based on survey results. While these have been some of our more immediate responses toward addressing campus climate, we understand that change does not happen overnight. Thus, Compton College will continue to support ongoing open and conversations, careful planning, and thoughtful implementation of ideas and action items to improve campus climate.

Action 3: Inclusive Classrooms and Anti-Racism Curriculum

The Compton College Academic Senate has authored "A Resolution to Declare that Equity and Black Lives Matter" in response to recent events, the Chancellor's Office "Call to Action," and to be in solidarity with the initiatives of Black Lives Matter. The resolution states three key points:

1. The Compton College Academic Senate is committed to improving the cultural education and cultural intelligence of all of its constituent groups, and to fostering attitudes of unity, solidarity, and togetherness;
2. The Compton College Academic Senate pledges to treat all campus members with dignity and respect and to be an ally to Black Lives Matter; and
3. The Compton College Academic Senate will urge all faculty members to create a culturally relevant and inclusive curriculum to highlight the injustices of this country and to the unfair treatment of historically underrepresented groups in many aspects of our society; to include the voices of historically underrepresented groups in course material selection; and to increase awareness of implicit bias, stereotypes, discrimination, individual and systemic racism, and genocides.

In fall 2021, Compton College will add a culture, diversity, and equity requirement for all students who plan to graduate with a degree from Compton College, in compliance with Compton Community College District Administrative Regulation 4025 - Philosophy and Criteria for Associate Degree and General Education. A certificate in the subject area is also in the works as faculty begin to collaborate on expanding the curriculum in each program area. This would include not just the Social Sciences and Humanities, where these curriculum discussions often take place around race and identity, but in all five Guided Pathways Divisions: Business and Industrial Studies; Fine Arts, Communications, and Humanities; Health and Public Services; Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math (STEM); and Social Sciences. To this end, the Academic Senate has called for the creation of the Call to Action Curriculum Task Force, made up of full-time and adjunct faculty who currently incorporate issues of social justice, public policy, health, environmental justice, and ethnic identity as part of their pedagogy and methodology on a local, global, and international level.

The requirement will allow students to analyze a wide range of past and contemporary issues among historically racialized populations while holistically developing a critical and intersectional understanding of race, ethnicity, class, gender, sexuality, and power in American society. Students will learn how systemic racism works, how it is embedded in all of our institutions, and how to advocate for change and challenge racism at the personal and structural level. The major prepares students for transfer and graduate studies and careers that serve communities of color, such as public and business administration, human and health services, marketing and communications, research and education, politics and government, fine and performing arts, and multicultural affairs. Compton College is committed to hiring up to three full-time faculty over the two years to assist with teaching courses associated with the new culture, diversity, and equity degree requirement.

Over the next two years, the Call to Action Curriculum Task Force will review all Compton College courses to examine anti-racism, diversity, equity, inclusion, and decolonize our curriculum. Finally, through the Program Review and Institutional Set-Goals, ensure the disaggregation of student success, retention, and persistence data from the Office of Institutional Effectiveness is shared and utilized by faculty and staff to improve academic programs and services.

Action 4: Board Reviews and Updates Equity Plans with Urgency

The "Call to Action" requires colleges to look at their Equity Plans with fresh eyes and answer the question of whether they are designed for compliance or outcomes. The Chancellor's Office calls on colleges to pull together a cross-campus team, including research, human resources, technology, faculty, support services, Classified staff, managers/supervisors, and others to focus on naming the barriers, identifying solutions, and then rallying the full campus to engage in meeting the needs.

Recognizing the importance of welcoming and honoring all voices on campus in the equity plan, Compton College will be assembling a team through the Student Success Committee to review the plan, provide insight, and make updates. The revised equity plan is expected to be presented to the Compton CCD Board of Trustees at the March 2020 board meeting. Additionally, Compton College understands that equity is embedded in everyone's work, rather than being encapsulated by a single person or position. Thus, the Director of Student Equity's title has been changed to the Director of Basic Needs and Student Success. Compton College will also be updating the equity section of its website to reflect the needs elicited by structural racism and COVID-19.

Action 5: Shorten Time Frame for Full Implementation of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) Integration Plan

The California Community Colleges Chancellor Office's Vision for Success Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Task Force called for full implementation of 68 recommendations over the next five years. In the "Call to Action," the Chancellor stated that "our system cannot afford to wait five years" and asks campus leaders to mobilize to implement all tier 1 recommendations in the next six to 12 months and to act with urgency to implement tier 2 recommendations. Compton College is on track to meeting this shortened timeframe.

In June 2020, the Compton CCD Board of Trustees adopted Resolution #06-16-2020F Affirming Compton Community College District Commitment to Faculty and Staff Diversity. A detailed action plan to implement the resolution was also created. The following month, Compton College applied for assistance from the Chancellor Office's Institutional Effectiveness Partnership Initiative (IEPI). The IEPI is committed to advancing the California Community Colleges' institutional effectiveness and enhancing the system's impact on serving students, advancing best practices, and avoiding potential pitfalls. Technical assistance teams, called Partnership Resource Teams (PRT), are subject matter experts and help institutions develop improvement strategies and timelines on their area of focus. Compton College's proposal for assistance from a mini-PRT to strengthen its professional development opportunities in relation to diversity, equity, and inclusion matters was approved. Compton College will receive up to a $75,000 grant in seed money toward the effort and technical assistance. The mini-PRT is expected to virtually visit Compton College in the fall of 2020, meet with various constituent groups, provide feedback and advice, and assist with drafting a plan on how to best design and implement the diversity, equity, and inclusion elements within professional development.

Finally, Compton College launched its new Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion webpage, which houses essential resources such as the Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO Plan), the Human Resources Staffing Plan, and the USC Center for Urban Education (CUE) report and action plan. Over the course of the year, the Director of Diversity, Compliance, and Title IX, in consultation with the EEO Advisory Committee, will identify strategies to implement the various recommendations, including considering race, poverty, and service people of color.

Action 6: Vision Resource Center "Community Colleges for Change"

The Chancellor's Office has created a virtual community in the Vision Resource Center where content, dialogue, and modules are uploaded. Appreciating that we all need to continue to invest time to learn as an educational community, Compton College's Professional Development Manager is spearheading the initiative to get our staff involved and invested with the Vision Resource Center. The Professional Development Manager will send monthly updates to employees with new information about the Vision Resource Center, provide sign-up assistance, and forward pertinent resources to the campus community. The goal is to have 100% of our employees and the Compton CCD Board of Trustees participating in the Vision Resource Center by March 1, 2021.

Conclusion

This document describes Compton College's status by implementing the six key actions from the Chancellor's "Call to Action." We will develop an action plan and timeline for each of the six key actions in the coming weeks. This is only the beginning of our work against structural racism. However, we recognize that the work ahead necessitates honest conversations, breaking down years of historical and societal barriers, and creating a new system that holds itself accountable for making progress. The journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step, and we are proud of our efforts as we march towards building a better future for our communities.
